New York, NY, March 03, 2014 -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- Digital agency, Code18 Interactive, is pleased to bring their web design, WordPress development and creative digital advertising services to the New York City area.

Originally established in Atlanta, Georgia and founded by Steve Pilon, Code18 Interactive has recently relocated its web design studio to New York City. Code18 Interactive is now operating out of Manhattan's Grind Spaces—a collaborative workspace located on Broadway at 39th Street, just South of Times Square.

"Grind Spaces is the ideal home for us," says Pilon. "We're a small team, so it is great to be able to feed off of the energy of such a smart and varied group of people. Plus, when we need to avail ourselves of another's expertise, there are dozens of talented people to draw from all working under one roof. The range of available talent is extraordinary."

Code18 Interactive's move to Manhattan comes on the heels of a successful ten-year run in Atlanta. "Our hands-on, small team approach allows us to provide thoughtful, high-quality work for a wide range of consumer and media brands," states Pilon. "But as our client base continues to grow, we realize that we need to continue to grow as well. So we decided to shake things up and begin our next chapter in New York City."

Code18 Interactive is a seasoned, full-service team of creatives and developers offering web design, WordPress development and digital advertising services to consumer and media brands. Through unconventional thinking and user-centered design, Code18 Interactive has brought measurable growth and results to a wide range of leading brands, including Unisom, Gold Bond, Algonquin Books, CNN, Verizon Wireless, Coca-Cola, USA Today, TKTS and many more.

The digital agency is currently seeking new clients, new partners, and new talent to join its growing team. For more information, visit <http://www.code18.com>
