Press Release Summary: Distributive Management, the leading provider of management dashboard software for project and program management, will host a live Webcast event in partnership with Paul Solomon, author of the book Performance-Based Earned Value. The presentation is on November 13th, 2007.

Press Release Body: "The webinar uses real-life examples to teach organizations how to re-shape their traditional Earned Value Management (EVM) activities to incorporate performance-based techniques," says Don Baxter, Distributive Management Sales Executive.

Solomon offers up for discussion a revolutionary approach to adding Quality to your traditional earned value techniques to help projects meet technical, schedule and cost objectives. The webinar turns to Distributive Management's dashboard software, DataDrill EXPRESS, to bring Solomon's illustration to life with personalized key performance indicators, management dashboard views, alerts and analysis.

"We'll review the deployment and use of a core set of Performance-Based Earned Value® metrics and give direction on how to use Web dashboards to improve your project performance," says Baxter.

The one-hour event is being offered to the public at no charge. To register for this event, please visit Distributive Management's web site, www.distributive.com.
