Press Release Summary: Online subscribers to receive one chapter of the Russian epic at a time via email or RSS feed, through SerialLit.Com.

Press Release Body: Miami, Florida -- November 1, 2007 -- CurioZities, LLC, announced today it will shortly begin offering readers a serialization of Leo Tolstoy's famous classic, War and Peace, through its new website, SerialLit.Com. Visitors to SerialLit.Com will be able to click on a link to a blog set up specifically for this service (<http://war-and-peace-by-author-leo-tolstoy.blogspot.com/>). There, readers will be able to subscribe to receive chapters of War and Peace via email or an RSS reader, free of charge.

"We're starting the serialization of War and Peace on Friday November 2, 2007, and will offer a new chapter in sequence each Friday after that," said Frank Calderon, Manager of Curiozities, LLC. "We're offering this service because we know what it's like to have the desire to read classic literature, without having the spare time to enjoy it."

Some readers can be intimidated by the number of pages in a novel like War and Peace, Calderon said. "If you've always wanted to read this masterpiece, this is your chance to do so for free, in installments you can read a few minutes a time."

Calderon urged interested readers to subscribe right away so as not to miss the first installment. But he added that an interested reader can always go back to the War and Peace blog at <http://war-and-peace-by-author-leo-tolstoy.blogspot.com/> and either read chapters he or she has missed there, or send missed chapters to his or her personal email address.

"If you're interested, either visit SerialLit.Com and look for the link to our War and Peace blog, or go there direct--<http://war-and-peace-by-author-leo-tolstoy.blogspot.com/>," Calderon added.
