Press Release Body: Kenneth Brown Challenges People to Rely on Their Faith, Find Strength and Build Success Despite Challenging Times

(Detroit, MI.) Millionaire-Motivator, Kenneth Brown, is a young man of humble Chicago beginnings that starkly contrast his ultimate success in business and in life. Ken is the son of teenaged parents who were basically poverty stricken. Ken's childhood is a seemingly typical story of how a young Black boy is brought into dire circumstances socially, economically and environmentally, but what is not typical is the deep faith, spiritual wealth and determination instilled in young Ken by his mother and by God. With diligence and a commitment to excellence in everything he has ever done, Ken has risen from a McDonald's employee to the multi-millionaire, youngest owner of two Metro-Detroit-based McDonald's restaurants. Kenneth Brown exemplifies "the great American success story". Ken shares secrets, wisdom and inspiration in a life changing all-day L.I.F.E. Experience event on August 16th in Southfield at the Southfield Marriott.

Kenneth Brown offers his unique brand of deep spiritual insight combined with motivational transformation to individuals, schools, organizations, companies and corporations nationally and internationally. His life story is one of transcendence, success and triumph over adversity in order to fulfill his optimal potential and claim his true destiny in the world. Ken's gift to the world is the revelation that each human being arrives in the world with everything he or she needs to succeed already within him or her. Ken teaches that by hard work, determination, tenacity and faith one can and must develop a solid work ethic and adopt a system unleashing excellence, inner-strength and high achievement on all levels. This exemplifies the L.I.F.E. Experience .

Ken's father was young, but he always taught his children the importance of working hard and doing one's best at all times and in all things. It was always Ken's hard work, attention to detail and initiative that distinguished him as a very young man working as an employee at various companies, including McDonald's. Ken's young mother was wise beyond her years and while she may have had a 'poverty of finances' in her life, she possessed something of greater value. Mrs. Brown had a wealth of spirit, which is the legacy that she passed on to Ken. Ken, now a dedicated husband and father of three boys passes this legacy on to his children and to the world. Ken's mother used to often say, "We lived in poverty, but poverty never lived in us." Kenneth Brown talks, walks and manifests the essence of that legacy with all he does and all he teaches others to do.

Kenneth Brown is a living testimony to the fact that one can achieve and dream or reach any goal despite his or her humble beginnings if only she or he would put their faith in God and work hard. External assessments of potential and a young person's probability of ever achieving success in life would seem to have indicated that Brown was headed for a life of perhaps mediocrity, disenfranchisement or perhaps abject failure. But Ken is not a product or a victim of society. He is a child of God. He shares the good news with everyone that success is everyone's birthright and that Jesus made every man, woman and child a promise—that we can have life and have it "more abundantly."

By faith, fight and fortitude Kenneth Brown has walked and worked his way to claim the promise of Jesus and the glory of God in his life. Brown has proven all negative predictions regarding his true identity and ability to succeed, false and he has broken through those barriers for other young people who may for whatever reason appear to the world to be destined for a marginalized future. Brown speaks. People listen. Lives change—just as Brown's own life has changed. "Your vision," proclaims Brown, "is God's gift to you—given via your faith and your belief that all things are possible. If you believe your vision is ordained for the appointed time, then your vision is reality!"

Brown, a highly acclaimed motivational speaker, life coach and entrepreneur is exceptionally successful at teaching, inspiring and uplifting young minds. His strong faith and talent for motivating others to succeed has called him to form his own corporation, Kenneth Brown International. As CEO of Kenneth Brown International, Ken has evolved into one of the most respected and highly sought after international motivational speakers in the world. His honesty and candid talk about faith, vision, purpose and passion inspires and motivates people to see a vision for their lives beyond their current circumstances.
