New information from Harley Medical Group has shown that while liposuction was traditionally used on the stomach, more and more patients are requesting the surgery in other problem areas. These areas include fatty deposits above the knee known as knee saddles, cankles, where the calf meets the ankle, fat deposits on the back along the bra line and the area under the arms, commonly referred to as bingo wings.

The Harley Medical Group has also noticed a surge in bookings for other cosmetic procedures, namely Botox. Recent reports from the US have suggested that women are bingeing on Botox. Whereas Hollywood starlets would once opt for a more natural youthful look they are now in danger of looking suspiciously crease free to the point where their faces can look frozen.

According to several reports, Hollywood casting agents are leading the way in a Botox backlash. At The Harley Medical Group, surgeons strongly recommend that patients opt for smaller doses of Botox to prevent this 'startled look' and have been advised to refrain from treating people who are considered to be undertaking a superfluous number of treatments. The Harley Medical Group has noticed a surge in bookings for Botox treatments but, predominantly, the UK's men and women are opting for 'Baby Botox', a lighter variation of the administration of the treatment.

The Baby Botox procedure is when only very tiny amounts of the toxin are administered, resulting in a subtle and more natural effect. Baby Botox is increasingly popular as a preventative measure against wrinkles so it's especially popular with women in their mid to late 20s as well as among older women looking for a subtle anti aging effect.
