Press Release Summary: Members of Catalent's Respiratory, Analytical and Biotechnology Group will participate in the Parenteral Drug Association (PDA) West Coast Chapter's panel discussion titled "Challenges and Best Practices in Extractable and Leachables" on January 22, 2009.

Press Release Body: Research Triangle Park, N.C. – January 19, 2009
– Patty Kiang, Ph.D., Catalent's Account Director for Analytical &

Biotech Services in its Northern C.A./Pacific Northwest territory, and Tom Feinberg, Ph.D., Catalent's Director, Structural Chemistry will both participate in the Parenteral Drug Association (PDA) West Coast Chapter's panel discussion titled "Challenges and Best Practices in Extractable and Leachables." The panel is part of the Chapter's 2009 Professional Dinner Meeting Series.

Kiang, who has served in the past as a faculty member of the Parenteral Drug Association's (PDA) Training and Research Institute, will moderate the evening's discussion. Feinberg, a member of the PQRI Leachables & Extractables Working Group, is scheduled to deliver a presentation titled: "Future of Extractables and Leachables Regulatory Expectations - A PQRI Process Update." Both Kiang and Feinberg work within Catalent's Respiratory, Analytical and Biotechnology Group, with sites in Research Triangle Park, N.C., San Diego, C.A. and Middleton, W.I.

The PDA event will be held January 22 at 6pm in South San Francisco. Additional information about the 2009 Dinner Meeting Series and this panel discussion can be found at www.wccpda.org.
