The most beautiful women from across the state of California competed for the title of Mrs. California United States 2009 this past May at the Hotel Angeleno. A celebrity panel of judges picked Mrs. Woodland Hills, Lisa McCumber-Gandara, as the winner.

Lisa is a Wife, Mom, Model and Karate teacher. She will work throughout her year promoting her platform, Family Awareness, as well as Lung Cancer Awareness (the Platform associated with the State Pageant). Lisa advocates that "each and every family forms the nucleus of our society. Through community involvement, volunteer work and giving our children a foundation built on love, communication and respect, we create a strong nucleus of people, and a destiny we can celebrate."

The Mrs. United States Pageant Organization, "The Premiere Pageant for Married Women", is a 23 year institution celebrating women that are successful, articulate, community service-oriented, as well as beautiful....a "Complete Woman, Total Beauty".

Lisa will compete with 52 women, one delegate from each state, as well as DC and US territories, in Las Vegas, Nevada. The televised event will take place at the Orleans Hotel July 23rd , 2009.

Mrs. California United States wins over $10,000 in prizes, and is produced by Mrs. United States 1999, Janice McQueen-

Ward (niece to legendary Steve McQueen).
