On the 30th of June, the Australian cricket team will be taking on the English Home team in the Nat West Series ODI match. One match in a short series of five, the two teams are set to face off, with capacity crowds expected at the London matches.

The June 30th match will be held at The Oval, which is located on the southern side of the city, just a short trip from the city centre. Venue operators have high hopes for this event, and are prepared to welcome a sell-out crowd of 23,500 if need be.

This match is one in a series of 5 cricket matches between England and Australia, each one set in a different cricket arena. The July 30th match will be the fourth in the series, and may very well turn out to be a deciding match in this series of five.

The Oval is located in Surrey, and is well within reach of most transport options and numerous hotels in London. Lek Boonlert, Head of Marketing at DirectRooms.com, said, "The hotel accommodation around The Oval is impressive, however during major events such as this, demand is unpredictable, and nearby hotels are likely to fill quickly."

Those looking for an inexpensive, nearby London hotel should have no issue booking their reservation and securing their room. Book your accommodation well in advance to avoid missing out on what promises to be an exceptional series of cricket matches.
