

Hazmat Training Comes to Burbank

Released on: November 25, 2010, 3:10 am
Author: Environmental Resource Center
Industry: Environment

November 25, 2010 - When workers handle hazardous waste or ship hazardous materials, training is not just a good idea, it's the law. According to the Department of Toxic Substances Control, workers who handle hazardous waste must be trained annually, and the federal DOT requires that workers involved in the shipment of hazardous materials be trained at least every three years. If your facility generates hazardous waste in the state of California, you must comply not only with the California hazardous waste regulations, but also with federal regulations that have not yet been incorporated into the California rules.

Environmental Resource Center®, the leading provider of environmental and safety training, will present the mandatory training in Burbank on December 14 – 16 at the Holiday Inn - Burbank Media Center.

Hazardous Waste Management: The Complete Course will be taught on December 14 and 15.

DOT Hazardous Materials Training: The Complete Course will be taught on December 16 at the same location.

Registration for the training is available by calling 800-537-2372 or at <http://www.ercweb.com/classes>.

Now in its 29th year, Environmental Resource Center® trains not only thousands of industry personnel every year, the company also trains personnel from most of the state and federal agencies that enforce the regulations.

Contact Details: Malia Campbell
Environmental Resource Center®
919-469-1585; Fax: 919-342-0807
mcampbell@ercweb.com
<http://www.ercweb.com>

~~~~~

Press release distributed via EPR Network (<http://express-press-release.net/submit-press-release.php>)