Artist Biography

The unique sound of the acoustic guitar and lyrics that touch the soul is behind the success of Pinflap's The Branch

The man behind the Pinflap persona, Gregory Wooldridge, has been performing for over three decades emerging from rock bands and country band success in the 80s and 90s to become an internationally recognised acoustic guitarist, singer/songwriter.

Pinflap's voice transcends the ages, timeless, yet depicting the emotions of the current day through lyrics that while simple are not simply played.

Born in Indiana, Pinflap is currently based in Texas but he spent much of his former years performing across California. He cites Lindsay Buckingham, James Taylor and Ian Anderson as influences on his music. Pinflap, like Buckingham, never uses a pick...ever! Pinflap uses a Guild, Martin and more recently he favours the Gibson Hummingbird acoustic guitar.

In the early 80s Pinflap played bass and lead vocals for the heavy metal three piece band H2O. The main influences at that time were Osbourne and Rush. In the late 1980s Pinflap was Playing bass for the rock band Flat Broke. In 1989-91, as a member of the Terrel Cross Band, he played bass and back-up acoustic plus lead vocals.

In 1991 Pinflap played Bass then later in early 1997 acoustic rhythm for the Cadillac Cowboys before leaving the band to move to Texas for personal reasons in 1997. Pinflap currently plays solo to international audiences as an accomplished acoustic guitarist and singer/songwriter.
