LondonTown.com sources great hotel deals for fans flocking to the O2 this October

October 16, 2012, 1:16 pm -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- The O2 Arena in Greenwich continues to cement its reputation as one of the UK's foremost large-scale music venues with a series of huge concerts this October, ranging from the super-poppy to the intellectual and cutting-edge.

October 8th and 9th sees Oxford-based world-dominators Radiohead playing at the gigantic 23,000-capacity venue. And later on this month, a different proposition: American Idol judge and R'n'B-pop songstress Jennifer Lopez will be filling the O2 Arena with her own brand of mildly-Latin infused dance floor fillers and physical routines.

Tickets are expected to sell out for the show, and fans of J-Lo are full of anticipation for one of her biggest UK shows in the last five years. Her Dance Again world tour stops at the O2 for just one night – Monday 22nd October.

J-Lo fans who also want to live the high life like the lady herself can help themselves to the raft of 4- and 5-star deals on hotels in London with LondonTown.com.

The Hilton Canary Wharf Hotel, perched on the waterfront overlooking some of London's newest and most flashy buildings, has 4-star double rooms for the 22nd October for £287, for those looking for some all-out luxury.

And J-Lo fans who want to go back to the good old days of Jenny from the block (not Jenny's plush $20-million uptown penthouse) can take it a little easier at the Ibis London Docklands hotel, which has a room for two adults on 22 nd October for £73.
