November 08, 2012, 2:34 pm -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- ACE Sectional Buildings have been making wooden buildings for well over twenty years and specialise in sheds, workshops and summerhouses. They are a company that prides themselves on supplying a quality product built from wood supplied from a sustainable forest in Sweden, where one new sapling is planted for every tree felled, thus ensuring a constant supply of sustainable timber. Indeed they are one of the largest suppliers of summerhouses in the whole of the South East of England.

Their eye for detail and the use of the best construction materials can be seen in their best selling Middlesex Summerhouse, which starts at just over a £1,000 including the VAT. This is a low price to pay for what will become virtually an extension to your house, and be like an extra room on your house that you can make into your home from home.

One of ACE Sectional Buildings specialities is the ability to customise your summerhouse as they recognise that no two gardens are ever alike, and for this reason they can supply the Middlesex Summerhouse with a door on the left or the right to fit in with your garden requirements. The Middlesex Summerhouse sells very well not just for this reason but because it also allows a massive amount of light in to the summerhouse as it is fitted with large Georgian style windows on the front and the sides.

The company also recognise that many people now want to use their summerhouse all year round, and hence the summerhouse is built to last and it can even be specified with heavier duty cladding including options of 12 and 15mm shiplap, as well as 19mm log lap. Whilst the standard roofing felt easily keeps the rain out you could opt for heavy duty roofing felt, as well as red roofing felt if you want your summerhouse to stand out from the crowd. Whilst the standard Redwood it is built from will be very weather resistant, you can choose to opt to have it built out of pressure treated wood instead, making for a truly long life, low maintenance product – This pressure treated option also covers the T & G roof and floor as well, whilst many rivals do not. This emphasis on good construction puts it well ahead of its cheaper counterparts. As well as just thinking about the quality of the wood it is made of, careful attention has also been paid to the ancillary items used in the construction.

ACE Sectional Buildings has specified the Middlesex Summerhouse with double doors and Georgian windows placed wherever you want them, featuring safety plastic glass in both, giving you peace of mind if you have children. For security the doors feature a 3 lever lock, and are finished off with black ornate ironmongery. Whilst the summerhouse is supplied on a self assembly basis, it comes with full instructions and all screws and fixings to complete the job.

With all of these features it is very easy to see why the Middlesex Summerhouse is ACE Sectional Buildings best selling summerhouse model.
