February 07, 2013, 12:11 am -- /EPR NETWORK -- Hapless UK burglars got more than they bargained for when attempting to break into a Beast Sheds customer's garden shed; since the heavy duty, security withstood the onslaught and forced them to leave empty handed.

It's a fitting example of just how safe and secure a garden shed from Beast Sheds can be, and suggests that more homeowners with goods to protect should put their trust in one of the most reliable manufacturers in the industry.

Beast sheds manufactures high quality, heavy duty, secure and rot resistant wooden sheds to suit any price range. A host of additional safety features are available to ensure that Beast Sheds garden sheds and summer houses can be trusted to securely house more than just gardening equipment. More and more are changing the way they think about their garden sheds and garden buildings. A wide variety of uses are growing ever more popular. These uses include creating garden offices, music rooms and gyms.

With an extra secure garden shed from Beast Sheds, customers can put a reliable new roof over their valuables and enjoy the peace of mind that comes with knowing these items are safe from almost anything.

Tanalised Security Sheds use extra strong treated wood, and have bolts through the hinges and locks, instead of screws. Additional 'ledge and brace' doors provide more framework than the standard door which is more difficult to penetrate.

After waking up to discover that burglars had attempted to break into their shed, one fortunate Beast Sheds customer was quick to pass on their gratitude to the company and shed a light on how their tanalised, heavy duty garden building was able to withstand the unsavoury attention it received.

They said: "As you'll see [from the accompanying photographs] they've tried to prise pieces of the shiplap away from the supporting framework of the door then break the framework itself. Although they've made a bit of a mess they ultimately gave up, so the shed did its job."

It's a compelling example of how useful and reliable a garden shed from Beast Sheds can be.
