February 12, 2013, 11:31 am -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- With Valentine's Day almost upon us, Warner Leisure Hotels has called on couples across Britain to treat themselves to a little bit of luxury on the most romantic day of the year.

February 14 will see people across the UK get together to remember all the things they love about each other, and what better place to enjoy a treat than at one of Warner's beautiful hotels or coastal villages. Couples could choose to relax and enjoy a delicious Italian meal at Fenocchi's Restaurant in the former wine cellar at Thoresby Hall, Nottinghamshire, or perhaps take a romantic stroll along the cliff top at Corton Coastal Village in Sussex and admire the breathtaking views over the ocean.

To help get people in the mood for romance, the team at Warner has put together a Valentine's Day infographic which lists some lesser-known facts about the day, including what type of cuisine is likely to set a loved one's heart aflutter, and how different coloured roses can mean very different things.

Warner's on-site teams will be helping to make things that little bit more special on Thursday too. Ladies visiting Sinah Warren Hotel in Hampshire can expect to receive a long-stem carnation as they enter the dining room on Thursday night, while couples staying at Holme Lacy House Hotel will find a delicate red rose waiting on their table.

Even though it is often the small things that really help to make a romantic evening, grand gestures are usually welcome too! In that vein, Warner's latest special offer has seen 50 per cent knocked off the price of thousands of rooms as part of the company's million pound giveaway, ensuring spring breaks and May bank holiday breaks have never been such great value.

Jason Riseborough of Warner Leisure Hotels, said: "We're inviting couples to take some time out to remember when they first met, to enjoy a romantic meal together and to spend some quality time in each other's company in a beautiful setting.

"But even if you can't make it to one of our 13 locations around the UK at short notice, it's possible to organise special celebration and VIP experience packages throughout the year. Regardless of when you pay a visit, it's easy to make your stay at Warner extra special."
