Former X Factor finalist will perform as part of UK arena tour

March 05, 2013, 10:50 am -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- Olly Murs is playing one date at Wembley Arena this March, as part of his UK-wide arena tour that includes gigs in Nottingham, Newcastle, Brighton, Sheffield, Birmingham, Aberdeen, Glasgow and Manchester. The London show takes place in the middle of the tour, on March 10. Website LondonTown.com has revealed details of special discounts on London hotels for the night of the gig.

Murs narrowly lost out to 2009 X Factor winner Joe McElderry, but, like so many previous runner-ups from the show, ultimately found greater success and public favour. His pop career has been augmented by various stabs at TV and radio presenting, including a regular guest spot on talkSPORT, a gig which has emphasised the Man Utd supporter's keen interest in football.

The singer/songwriter has always humbly attributed his career to luck as much as talent, as evidenced by the title of his third album 'Right Place , Right Time'. This humility, paired with straightforward, unashamed pop material has endeared him to the British public. An Essex boy made good, his success has been built as much on personality as music.

He's already started touring the album round the country. Tickets for the Wembley show cost £34, and doors open at 7pm. To help travelling Murs fans see their idol in the capital, events and booking website LondonTown.com has just announced details of special deals on selected London hotels close to Wembley Arena.
