April 19, 2013, 3:14 pm -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- A new Grand National Tips website is celebrating success after helping its visitors bash the bookies. The 'Grand National Race' website tipped race winner Auroras Encore a day before the race at odds of 100/1, helping lucky punters make hundreds of pounds each.

"We really had a field day with the Grand National win and have received loads of great comments and emails from our website visitors" said chief tipster James Walker. "One punter won over £1000 so that obviously makes us really happy that we are doing our job properly!"

The website is now looking to follow up on that success with the Scottish Grand National its next target. The race takes place on Saturday 20 th April at Ayr racecourse and is a popular race, with prize money of over £100,000 to the winner. The field is wide-open for this race, but again James is confident of success,

"Grand Nationals are unique races compared to 99% of other horse races and we think we have a good formula for success."

After a successful first year in existence, James is hoping to go from strength to strength and hopes the 'Grand National Race' website will be the first of many sites that help punters make some money.

"We live in harsh economic times, so people are always happy to get a bit of extra money in their pocket, we hope our sites can help in that respect, with our extra services like Grand National Free Bets helping our users to basically get money for nothing"
