

Get easy entry to Richmond Literature Festival through London Premier Notting Hill

The logo for London Premier Notting Hill is a black rectangle with the words "LONDON PREMIER" and "NOTTING HILL" in white, serif, all-caps font, stacked vertically.

Released on: November 29, 2013, 11:43 am

Author: London Premier Notting Hill

Industry: Travel

London, United Kingdom, November 29, 2013, 11:43 am -- /EPR NETWORK/ -- Lovers of British literature, who are planning a vacation for quite some time, would be delighted with the news that the Richmond Literature Festival is just days away in London. So London is the ideal destination for every literature and art enthusiast this season. The 22nd edition of the grand literature festival would start with the beginning of November and would continue to enlighten and entertain the people of UK and visitors throughout the month. The event would be made colorful by varieties of events and activities which would take place at different venues of the Richmond borough and visitors would have a golden opportunity to learn a lot about new authors, their books and different other things related to literature and arts.

The highlights of the grand 'literature event' include poetry reading sessions, discussions by eminent authors on their works, workshops and the Children and Young People's Festival, which would run alongside the festival. The Children and Young People's Festival has been specially designed for the young souls. The event will bring an opportunity for them to attend a discussion on the meaning and basics of contemporary art. The bigger fun would come when they will meet the creators of Guinea Pigs Online Series, the creation which has already won thousands of little hearts. Moreover, kids will get the scope to know about the world of typography.

For adults and elders, the biggest achievement would be the sessions where eminent names from the today's literature world like Charles

Moore, Daisy Waugh and Sir Max Hastings would discuss the contents of their latest books. But the discussions would not remain confined within that and would touch different interesting topics like letter writing and getting them published. For poetry lovers, a great event would be the sessions where famous Richmond poets like Robyn Bolam and Anne-Marie Fyfe would read from their latest publications. To add 'spice' to the festival, eminent TV chef and noted food writer Allegra McEvedy would talk with audience about her latest book on cookery and give live demo on cooking.

The organizers of the Richmond Literature Festival are confident that the event will be a treat for all who have interest in poetry, literature and journalism. All would like to be a part of this great event and doing it would be easier for visitors who would be staying at the London Premier Notting Hill. Situated at the prime location in the affluent Notting Hill district, the luxurious London Premier Notting Hill would be offering easy accesses to all venues of the Richmond Literature Festival. While some of the venues would be within short walkable distance from the property some would be accessible via the underground rail route. To ensure a presence at the event venue, visitors should book rooms at the London Premier Notting Hill now.

About London Premier Notting Hill

Situated close to the Bayswater, one of the busiest and exciting areas of Central London, London Premier Notting Hill is a palatial property where contemporary has been nicely blended with history and heritage. The hotel is set in a traditional Victorian building but its interior has been refurbished completely to turn it into a contemporary hotel. Warm traditional welcome greets the guests here and luxurious accommodation facilities ensure complete comfort, convenience and satisfaction. Each room of the hotel is elegantly appointed with modern furniture, mood lighting and modern amenities like plasma TV with satellite connection, digital clock, iron, hair dryer, mini bar and internet access. The hotel is also known for its 'dine and wine' service, credit for which goes to its restaurant and bar. Apart from mouthwatering food, the place offers an ambience which is perfect for parties as well as official meetings.

~~~~~

Press release distributed via EPR Network (<http://express-press-release.net/submit-press-release.php>)