Press Release Summary = V.O. TECH, LLC a manufacturer of vegetable oil conversion systems for diesel engines receives award for being eco-friendly at Clearwater Festival, June 17, 2007, Croton Point Park, NY

Press Release Body = V.O. Tech, LLC, a manufacturer of systems which allow diesel engines to run on straight vegetable oil, was presented with an "Environmental Responsibility Award" by Senior Americas' Team Green. V.O. Tech was chosen for contributing to the greening of America and to our children's future by promoting renewable fuels for transportation.

The award was presented by Howard "Levin, President Senior America's Team Green and was accepted on behalf of V.O. Tech by the company's founders Walter Little and Jonathan Bernz.

V.O. Tech, LLC, is a manufacturer of high-performance diesel-hybrid conversion systems that allow mechanical and electronic diesel-powered engines to operate on either pure (straight) vegetable oil, or traditional diesel fuel, all at the choice of the driver. The company was founded in 2006 and is headquartered in Mahopac, NY.

"These companies are promoting the greening of America to put our nation back in balance with the earth, and Senior America's Team Green is proud to officially recognize them," said Levin. Senior America's Team Green Promotions represents environmentally friendly companies. Howard "Lev" Levin is a philosopher who believes that "America is out of balance, but we must continue to inspire other nations. We all have a stake in determining in which direction we must go to ensure our children's future and our quality of life."
