Industry = Internet & Online

Press Release Summary = Chris Curtis, the new face over at Voice America is filling a void for web site owners and entrepreneurs facing online business challenges.

Press Release Body = It takes more than a digital business card to maximize the power of the internet for today's business owners. However, there are few opportunities for business owners to learn from the top experts in the technology, marketing or motivation arena how to substantially increase sales, revenue and market share. With the premiere of WebWise Business on The Voice America Network, veteran talk show host and web guru, Chris Curtis intends to fill this void in the marketplace. The focus is "doing business on the web" when the new show airs on Sundays at 6PM EST on VoiceAmerica's Business Channel.

The format combines a mixture of top internet professionals and business experts as featured guests including William R. Patterson, co-author of The Baron Son; Business Strategist, Jill Koenig; Women's Business Advocate, A'Lelia Bundles, and Multi-Level Marketing Expert Keith Wynn. The show will also include technology challenges, new product reviews, call-in questions and comments from listeners. "WebWise Business is a unique vehicle. We're very excited about the opportunity to bring this information to the public via The VoiceAmerica Network and look forward to a long relationship.", says Chris. "The true spirit of internet business begins with people helping each other to learn, grow and profit. Our show carries that spirit."

Executive Producer Stephan Jacob singled Chris Curtis because he found her to be an energizing and vivacious talent. "The key with Chris is that there's always a suprise. That's the reason I chose her to be on the VoiceAmerica Business Network, and the reason why you should tune in each and every week.", says Jacob.

The WebWise Business show, sponsored by Knowledge and Success Inc., builds on Chris' existing audience and also brings a new following to VoiceAmerica. "Anticipation is high and many have shared their enthusiasm for the The WebWise Business Show. It's amazing to see how many business owners and entrepreneurs want to learn how to use the web as a business tool, and it's inspiring to collaborate with businesses around the globe to teach them how.", Curtis adds.

With more than 12 years experience in the internet business industry. Chris' knowledge and practical experience includes internet marketing, web development, and strategic consulting. The Philadelphia-born chatterbox can also be heard on Saturdays on Philadelphia talk radio station, 900AM WURD, on the Tech Talk Philly program with "Computer-Techie" Co-host - Chuck Stewart.

This is a great time for Curtis, whose flagship domain at www.webbusinessownership.com has just been nominated for Best Wealth-Building Site by the Black Web Awards. For the second time this year, Curtis proves that she's more than just talking about helping business owners and entrepreneurs - she's doing it.
