Press Release Body: If you are like most entrepreneurs, you are probably always in search of funding for your projects and business opportunities. You have depleted your emergency stash, maxed out your credit cards and can no longer borrow cash from any other sources.

With the dollar dropping against most foreign currencies and inflation on the rise, it's no wonder entrepreneurs feel under pressure to keep up with their finances. While we are not technically in a recession, people are finding it more and more difficult to make ends meet, especially business owners.

Not surprisingly, entrepreneurs are increasingly looking for alternative means of supporting themselves, their businesses and their families. Secondary incomes are rapidly becoming the standard while the creativity to find a decent-paying second financial stream that doesn't take up too much time is increasing. Many people are looking to the internet to subsidize their incomes are becoming disgusted from the search.

Smart entrepreneurs like Carlos Perez, President and CEO of Wall Street Boyz, Inc. know not to look for funding through traditional means and have embraced a new way of raising capital by going online. When interviewed by Branch 1 Financial Services for their monthly newsletter, Mr. Perez explained why he loves the program and promotes it. "American entrepreneurs have come to realize they need to find alternative funding sources in order to achieve their financial goals and Fundraiser 1.0 is the answer for many of these entrepreneurs." Like many business owners, Mr. Perez found himself hitting a wall while trying to fund a project earlier this year and was at his wits end until he found Fundraiser 1.0. He found it to be a spectacular and easy way to raise capital. And Mr. Perez has found that like him, many business owners have exhausted all the known possibilities and robbing a bank is hardly a realistic or viable substitute. But there is a plan that can come in handy on those rainy days when cash is needed. You know, those days when it's a real emergency.

"The Fundraising 1.0 Program was developed over the course of two years and is one of the most researched products I've seen in a long time", says Mr. Perez. The creators of the software have been aware of the growing financial crisis in America and set out to help people pick up a little cash with the help of the internet.

The internet has changed the way people live and do business. In the past finding sources for funding your business was mind-boggling to say the least. You had to submit financial statements, balance sheets, and so much paperwork it's a wonder we still have forests. Fundraiser 1.0 gives you the opportunity to raise the necessary funds for your business without "killing forests". The program was created by a real company with Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) filings and a Corporate Charter – so you know that this is legitimate. In addition they are Internet Trade Bureau Approved.

According to Mr. Perez, "the program was created to help entrepreneurs, organizations and income seekers raise funds for both their non-profit or for profit business without all the hassles you'd previously encounter at financial institutions by raising funding or capital online. With the upcoming recession preparing to hit, it's nice to know that entrepreneurs will have access to unlimited funds".
