Press Release Body: Internet Marketers Find Helpful Business Mentors to Increase Success at Mentors On Call

Today there are many people who are getting involved in internet marketing and looking for a way to be successful. In fact, with the recent problems with the economy and the loss of great jobs, there are many people now pursuing careers in internet marketing. Marketers on the web are always looking for new information and mentors to help increase their success and now one new site is offering information from top mentors to aid in marketing success - www.MentorsOnCall.net.

This new site is an innovative membership site that has much to offer aspiring internet marketers. They offer original audio interviews with the best and greatest internet marketers on the web today. These audio interviews are updated on a monthly basis, offering helpful mentoring for new internet marketers as well as old pros.

The top internet marketing names include many well known marketers, including Ty Cohen, Marc Gamble, Jay Conrad Levinson, Eva Browne-

Patterson, Mark Flavin, and John Taylor, just to name a few. Some of the topics that are covered by these mentors include strategies for getting started in internet marketing, tips for making money quickly, secrets for testing and tracking, online product promotion, and many more important and informative topics. The audio interviews provided essentially take users through internet marketing step by step for a no fail approach.

Not only does the site offer helpful audio interviews, but a top quality newsletter is also offered to members of the site as well. Other benefits that are offered include free software, helpful videos, articles full of helpful internet marketing information, and excellent ebooks to help marketers improve their career and success.

The two men behind this site, Larry Combs and Daniel Truelove, both found themselves dealing with the struggles that many internet marketers today are going through a few years ago. Due to their own experiences and what they have learned in the past few years, they now are able to offer this membership service that offers the key to success to other people involved in internet marketing today.
