

New Book Shows 80% of Women How They Can Improve Their Sex Lives

Released on: December 1, 2008, 5:50 am

Press Release Author: Amanda and Eric Jeffries / Ava Publishing, LLC

Industry: Consumer Services

Press Release Summary: Research shows that Over 80% of Women Need Skilled Clitoral Stimulation, Preferably Oral, to Reach Orgasm. 75% of Men Either Don't Practice Oral Sex or Don't Know How to Do it Well. A Newly-Released Book, Ecstatic Oral Love: A Women's Guide to Receiving, Shows Women 21 Ways to Ask for Oral Sex and Educate Partners About Their Unique Needs.

Press Release Body: November 29, 2008. Ashland, Oregon - A new book release, Ecstatic Oral Love: A Women's Guide to Receiving, aims to bring new insight and practical tools to the 80% of women who need skilled clitoral stimulation to reach orgasm. A free preview of information from the book is available at www.ideservethisloving.com.

Since the sexual revolution of the 1960's women have become generally more empowered in society and at home. Yet, surveys consistently show that women largely remain unsatisfied in the bedroom. 70% or more fake orgasms, and 80% say they prefer oral stimulation in order to be able to orgasm. The same 80% cannot orgasm through intercourse alone.

Ecstatic Oral Love teaches a woman 21 ways to create an “oral sex atmosphere”, ask for oral pleasuring, and show their partner what uniquely works for her.

Men are often raised to expect receiving oral pleasure, yet are taught words and images that characterize a woman’s sexual organs as unclean. Actually, a woman’s vagina is cleaner than the average human mouth. One of Ecstatic Oral Love’s humor techniques is for the woman to say: “You know, I just found out that a woman’s vagina has far fewer germs than the human mouth, so when you’re ready to give me an amazing licking, you’ll have to brush your teeth first!”

The authors of Ecstatic Oral Love, Amanda and Eric Jeffries, went through their own oral sex challenges. In late 2007 Eric had a bad cold, and while sick had a negative reaction to Amanda’s natural flavor. He took care of the problem by arranging a personal hypnosis session, and the relationship was saved.

Amanda and Eric then researched the issue and found that there was no one source that teaches a woman how to ask for and educate her partner about her oral sex desires. They were shocked at the numbers – tens of millions of women are unable to have orgasms with their partners. Most women don’t talk about their sexual needs because of fear of losing the relationship or just not knowing how to raise this sensitive subject.

The authors interviewed and researched over a dozen sex educators and counselors, collected specific detailed techniques included “what to say” suggestions, and created this useful guide.

Ava Publishing is a new online publisher, focusing on books and audios that solve real-life problems in a healing and uplifting way. Ecstatic Oral Love and an accompanying audio, Cherish Your Self, Love Your Body, are the first productions.

Readers are invited to visit the site at www.ideservethisloving.com for a free 4-part preview of the book.

Web Site: <http://ideservethisloving.com>

Contact Details: Duane Light, PR/Media
Ava Publishing, LLC
1257 Siskiyou Blvd., #167
Ashland, OR 97520
Phone: 541-292-0100
Fax: 775-637-5707
Email: avapublishing@gmail.com