Press Release Summary: Kenn Renner is a top real estate agent in the Austin and Central Texas area. Due to Kenn's successful mastery of time management skills, he has been selected to host a series of Success and Time Management Seminars for Keller Williams Agents known as "The Highway Series". The Highway Series kicks off on December 11th and will extend through January 22, 2009.

Press Release Body: Lakeway, Texas – December 2, 2008 --
On Thursday, December 11th, from 10am to noon Kenn Renner (www.buyaustin.com), one of Austin's top real estate brokers and a national speaker will begin a series of goal setting and time management seminars entitled "The Highway Series." Kenn will bring a fresh new approach to the timeless, proven success principles of goal setting and "dream" achievement. The series will cover many of the concepts that he will be detailing in his new book: "The Highway – Purpose, Goals & Priorities" to be published in early 2009.

The first seminar on December 11th will give an overview of "The Highway." Then the in-depth study will begin in January on the 8th, 15th & 22nd. The seminars will be held at the state-of-the-art KW training center in the new world-class Keller Williams Lake Travis Market Center in Lakeway, Texas.

Kenn has produced many successful seminars in the past, mostly geared towards real estate investing and finance. The Highway Series will deal more with defining purpose and how to systematically draw goals into reality through planning, strategizing, and prioritizing. The seminars will be helpful to anyone wanting to learn and apply proven techniques to achieve success. The seminars are not only relevant to those in the real estate industry, but to anyone looking to achieve better results; including business owners, leaders, entrepreneurs, athletes, and even home makers.

These timely seminars come in a season when many start making new years resolutions. Kenn comments, "In these uncertain and changing economic times it is imperative that we get grounded in the timeless principles of goal setting and achievement. And to reanalyze and refocus on what will truly bring us happiness, healthiness, and prosperity." Kenn adds, "I know that these presentations will surely help infuse clarity, passion, and power to the resolutions that most of us make at this time of year."

Kenn has lived these principles and knows what it's like to come from a broken background to achieve measurable success. "At one time I was one of those guys you hear about on late night TV - living in a one-bedroom apartment, surviving on cash advances on credit cards. I knew there must be a better way and the change in my life came when I learned goal setting." Though the journey to success did not end there: "I learned that goal setting is great, but if you don't know why you are doing what you are doing (purpose), or how to prioritize your time, then it can be a difficult road." For this reason Kenn developed "The Highway" – a process of defining purpose, goals, and priorities; which he shares in his presentations and in his upcoming book.

Kenn's career success has been proven by the numbers – over $80,000,000 in closed real estate transactions in the past 3 years. However, he places much more value in his roles of "being a good father, friend, and husband – to love and be loved is the highest value – and living that ideal is my idea of success."

The seminars are open to the public and are free of charge. To register visit: www.TheHighwaySeries.com or www.BuyAustin.com.
