"Everyone loves shopping for babies and baby gifts, but because parents are very selective when it comes to baby products, going organic is often the wisest choice when buying gifts for infants and children," said Sam Brown, spokesperson for Sandbox Couture. "Choosing gifts made of organic and eco-friendly materials, free from aldehyde-based dyes, is a thoughtful gift-giving gesture, and thanks to the variety of organic baby products we carry -- no more boring white onesies."

Shoppers will find an array of organic baby clothing and baby gifts perfectly suited to any occasion. Be it a baby shower, christening or birthday, customers looking for the ultimate parent-pleasing baby gift will end their search at Sandbox Couture. Itzy Ritzy nursing covers, blankets and car seat covers in fun, formaldehyde-free prints make ideal baby shower gifts. Soy organic cotton baby clothing, blankets and accessories, in eye-catching designs are sure to please. Small Plum Organic Bamboo graphic t-shirts and one-piece outfits are designed for kids who want to make a statement, while matching yoga pants keep kids comfortably bedecked in complementary colors.

Organic Bamboo is one of the world's most sustainable resources. It is the fastest growing grass on the planet. Bamboo grows organically without fertilizers, pesticides or irrigation, while absorbing greenhouse gases and converting them to green growth. Its fabric is hypoallergenic, thermal regulating and has fast drying, anti-microbial properties. In addition, bamboo wicks water up to four times faster than cotton, is odor resistant and provides UV ray protection.
