London, U.K. - 22 February 2010 - All the people who are Nintendo DS users and want to add more games and functions to their Nintendo DS console, NDS-Gear is offering a wide range of DS adapters and cards that will enhance the working of Nintendo DS. The customers can choose their respective DS adapters by browsing through the website of NDS-Gear. As the NDS-Gear is a direct stock holder of the DS adapters so the orders are delivered in 24 hours after the order has been placed online.

As per the official information obtained from the NDS-Gear officials, after a series of checks the much awaited iEDGE card has been released. After the huge success of EDGE DS cards, the need for the next version was pertinent which should have been compatible with the Nintendo's DSi, DSi XL and DSi LL versions. The iEDGE DS card is compatible with all of these versions and has successfully gone through the testing phase. R4dscard's menu system has been used as the base for iEDGE DS card thus enabling the faster working of the menu system. The console owners can play games along with the other applications.

The iEDGE card follows up from the earlier successful cards by NDS-Gear like R4ds, R4 SDHC . Giving it another facet, the iEDGE card has been packed in a beautiful pack so that it can also be gifted to somebody. The iEDGE card can accept upto 32 GB Micro-SDHC cards and is compatible with most of the versions of Nintendo. Along with the iEDGE cards, the NDS-Gear team has also come out with the M3i-Zero cards which are also next generation cards.

The reply from the NDS-Gear team mentioned that the NDS-Gear does not import the cards after the order has been placed instead they maintain a stock in UK so that all the orders can be processed immediately. NDS-Gear provides round the clock customer and takes utmost care of the fact that all the orders should reach the customers in top condition.
