A new trend is emerging that makes purchasing designer handbags a thing of the past. The trend for indie designer bags is so strong that even the biggest names are quickly producing some of their new collections with discretely placed brand names and logos.

This is why Canadian born emerging designer Theologia Karahalios chased her dream into reality with the launch of her handbag line Hellena Archais, in April 2009. From the beginning, following each season's trend in terms of style, materials and accessories was not a consideration. It was the shortage of one-of-a-kind, vintage inspired style handbags that made her determined to create something that had not been done before. She wanted to bring back to life the ancient world and its forgotten history.

What makes these handbags special is the unique coins that are attached which represent a variety of ancient civilization - Greek, Mayan, and Egyptian. These special pieces are replicas of museum artifacts.

She infuses two worlds with her high-end, high-quality design originals in supple leather, and her Greek background inspires her brand focus. Hellena Archais displays artisan craftsmanship using the finest-quality leathers and hides for her handbag collection.

The Hellena Archais handbag collection is the epitome of classic and timeless beauty. It is reserved for women who appreciate unique pieces of art and not mass produced bags that can be found at any retail store. Each bag is handmade at the time of order and is covered by 100% money back guarantee. Currently all handbags are 40% off.
