Erica Illingworth, Director of Molly Brown said, "Launching new designs is always a little nerve wracking, you never know whether buyers will react favourably or not – thankfully we seem to have hit the mark again with the new Tinkerbelle Collection and the new Molly Brown TAG necklace. We are already working on designs for Autumn/Winter 2010 and have some very exciting pieces in the pipeline."

The designer girls' jewellery brand continues to expand and is now stocked in over 80 stores nationally. The Collections have been featured on Selfridges' website as the 'Latest Must Have' and there have been waiting lists reported in stores for the jewellery when new Molly Brown designs are launched.
