MyMarbellaInfo.com, the leading online travel guide for Marbella, visits many opening parties each year to give site visitors an honest opinion on what to see and where to be seen, and has started the 2010 summer season in Marbella as it means to continue.

MyMarbellaInfo.com, which is renowned for its honest reviews and latest updates on all events in and around Marbella is taking its job very seriously by attending nearly every event on the coast to be able to give its site visitors an honest opinion on what to do during their stay in Marbella and where to be seen this summer.

"It is a job not to be taken lightly, and sometimes involves attending 5 or 6 events per weekend so it's not for the light hearted." said MyMarbellaInfo.com PR Manager Scarlett Smits who attended the opening at Ocean Club before moving on to the opening of the new Pangea nightclub in Puerto Banus and finishing the evening with the opening of one of the many Marbella restaurants, Bublés and the TIBU night club.

Marbella is known for its impressive summer parties, and many venues have already scheduled their spectacular events for this summer. The opening night at the Ocean Club provided one of those events where it was all about seeing and being seen. The dress code was strictly Silver and White, which made the beautiful people of Marbella look even more bling than usual.

The summer season has now officially started and the tourists are once again starting to flock to the village of Marbella. This means the next few months will become increasingly busy at MyMarbellaInfo.com as staff review the best in Marbella accommodation, so that visitors can party all night, enjoy the sunshine all day and sleep off champagne infused hangovers on the beach before getting ready for yet another night filled with entertainment.

Scarlett commented, "It is exhausting, but definitely worth it for the site as many people rely on the honest reviews on the events in Marbella, and MyMarbellaInfo can only give an honest opinion on events when they have actually experienced them for real. Our panel can think of worse jobs to have, but sees how this task is not for everyone."

MyMarbellaInfo.com pays special attention to the updating of its Marbella events page, daily uploading information and event photos for every possible event Marbella has to offer making sure it's visitors don't miss out on anything this summer.
