As I stumbled upon milanoo.com accidentally once surfing the e-market, I came across a highly well designed and user friendly website offering a wide range of apparels, accessories and digital products. I was oblivious of the 'Milanoo scam' until one of the bloggers discouraged me from entering into any deal with them.

However my stubbornness got the better of them and I ordered for a beautiful evening gown at a mouth watering price. Through a convenient system of money payment, I purchased the dress and received the delivery before the expected date! Having flaunted it at a close friend's party, I received surprised remarks after declaring the place of purchase, unfortunately, the 'Milanoo scam' depriving them of absolute bliss!

The tragedy with today's consumers is the fact that they start believing in negative publicity without having a firsthand experience of the same. It is often very easy to criticize something that is not in any way linked with one; unfortunately that's exactly the case with milanoo. The scam is nothing but creation of a few bloggers who are determined to bend the minds of their readers in the wrong way. Perhaps I can take the liberty to say this because I have been a regular purchaser of its items and none of them have fallen short of either my expectations or the attributes laid down on the website.

I recently got engaged and my wedding is scheduled for the next month. Needless to say that my gown is being designed by Milanoo! The satisfaction that I have as far as the monetary aspect or the fitting aspect is concerned is unparalleled and to add to this is the luxury that I have of choosing my dresses by lounging on my sofa with a cup of hot coffee is beyond words.

After seeing my friends going bizarre over their wedding gowns, I feel blessed to have Milanoo by my side! No wasting time in the markets, just ordering everything I like with just a click! I truly believe that everyone should enroll themselves as the permanent customers of the Milanoo and keep the scam controversy at bay since it holds absolutely no significance at all.

What better than having an assurance from a customer, who is not only satisfied with its absolutely extensive range and is forever glued to any new additions on the same! I think Milanoo has great stuff and at amazing bargains.
