

Guitar Teacher Goes From Working A Day Job To Support His Music Career To A Six Figure Guitar Teaching Business

Released on: July 19, 2010, 4:54 am
Author: Tom Hess Music Corporation
Industry: Entertainment

Tom Hess Music Corporation congratulates Antony Reynaert, member of Tom Hess' Elite Guitar Teachers Inner Circle, for successfully expanding his guitar teaching business to instructing over 100 students and earning over $100,000 per year doing so.

"Mentoring guitar teachers from all over the world is an extremely rewarding process for me", says Tom Hess, guitar instructor and trainer of guitar teachers in his Elite Guitar Teachers Inner Circle coaching program. He adds: "The most fulfilling part is seeing the guitar teachers I train become hugely successful after applying what I teach them. Antony Reynaert is a perfect example of such a success story - one of many that I receive on a regular basis."

Reynaert, a guitar teacher in Belgium, first started learning to teach guitar with Tom Hess having only 3 students, while working a separate full time day job to support himself. 13 months later, at the age of 23, Reynaert transformed his business and now successfully teaches more than 100 guitar students while working less than half the hours he did before making the transition to teaching. He is now in the process of expanding his business by developing new programs and continuing to attract more guitar students. In addition to teaching music, Reynaert is also working on developing his music career as a blues guitar artist, songwriter and performer.

Hess says: "I regularly receive feedback stories from many guitar teachers in my program telling me about the great success they have achieved from applying the training they receive from me. Yet Antony's success is special, not only because of his young age, but also because of the incredible speed with which he transformed his guitar teaching business."

Reynaert himself reports: "I am now my own boss and I can spend my time on what I want to do. I was able to build in just a few months a really good situation where I can have the freedom of time and financial situation I need to build my career further while helping my students develop better skills on guitar. The experience that I had in the Elite Guitar Teachers Inner Circle allowed me to build my career a lot faster."

More student success stories from the members of Hess' program on how to become a highly successful guitar teacher can be found at Tom Hess Music Corporation's website about teaching guitar.

Contact Details: PO Box 113
Cary IL 60013
<http://tomhess.net>
mike@tomhess.net
317-938-3738

~~~~~

Press release distributed via EPR Network (<http://express-press-release.net/submit-press-release.php>)