Concert ticket advertising group Tickets Hub (ticketshub.co.uk) are anticipating record ticket sales for the Take That 2011 tour on the eve of the announcement from the band of their planned tour dates for next year.

Since their return to the spotlight in 2006 after a long absence from the pop scene the band have gone from strength to strength and last years Circus tour was a quick sell out.

With the recent announcement of Robbie Williams rejoining Take That for new album Progress (due for release around Christmas) and the forthcoming 2011 tour- Take That tickets are hotly tipped by those in the ticketing industry to be the biggest sellers of 2011 both when primary tickets go on sale later this week and on the secondary reseller ticket market.

Take That tour tickets on the secondary ticket market are likely to fetch around £120- £200 or over 4 times the tickets face value as the official ticketing outlets will most likely be sold out within the hour of going on sale this Friday.

There is also speculation that the band will announce additional tour dates in the coming months.
