RICHMOND, KY (November 10, 2010) - Eastern Kentucky University (EKU), <http://safetymanagement.eku.edu>, is proud to announce the launch of a new website hosting all of the online degree programs available through the College of Justice and Safety. The new website will be a resource of information for current and prospective students, as well as industry professionals. Vital information on a suite of online programs including Bachelor's programs in Fire Protection Administration, Fire Protection and Safety Engineering Technology, and Occupational Safety and a Master's program in Safety, Security and Emergency Management is presented throughout the website. Working professionals within the fire and safety industries will also benefit from the information on this website, including fire resources, safety resources, and a collection of course videos.

In conjunction with the new website, ECU will also launch social media. Check for updates and current news on:
