MobbedMusic welcomes record labels and artists to submit new material for review and exposure on it's website. We not only review new music but we showcase the album cover prominently on our website with link backs to the artist, label, or where to buy.

Jared Stratton has joined MobbedMusic as Music Review Editor and enjoys reviewing all musical genre's and can be reached at: j.stratton@mobbedmusic.com. Jared has written extensively on music and has co-edited the e-anthology Beer Time and his fiction collection, Bar Flys was published in 2010.

"We are very excited to have Jared on board, now fans, artists, labels, the music industry insiders can easily access new and established artists," says Corwin. "And we're adding more reviews every day. You can come to the site again and again because you will be entertained every time."

To have new music reviewed is simple; just send us either a CD or links to your tracks, send us artwork to post on the site with the review so we can showcase your work.

Featured bands benefit in two ways: Exposure plus site traffic. The name of each band's website can be prominently displayed and links to websites are provided as well. Users are able to rate, save and comment on each review, creating a dialogue with others in the industry and fans.
