People shopping online for electronics gifts in the run up to Christmas could get more than they bargained for at dabs.com.

The UK's leading online technology retailer has slipped into the festive mood a little early this year and is offering customers some fantastic free gifts when they buy from a range of popular selected products.

Anyone who buys a laptop computer through the website will be treated to a free Microsoft wireless mouse, while people who purchase a desktop computer will receive a Logitech webcam, completely free. Customers who buy a 30-50 inch television through dabs.com will get a free wall mount and high definition (HDMI) cable, and anyone buying from a selection of digital cameras will receive a free 2GB SD memory card.

A spokesperson for dabs.com said: "We all know that Christmas is a time for giving, and at dabs.com we want to make gift shopping as simple and as enjoyable as possible for our customers.

"There are some fantastic deals to be found across all of our ranges and this offer is simply an added bonus for anyone buying from some of our most popular categories over the festive period. Our deals are open to everyone and are not just reserved for lunchtimes or Friday's, what's more they're on products that people actually want to buy. It's simply our way of rewarding our valued customers and spreading a little bit of Christmas cheer."

The offer is now underway at dabs.com and will run until November 30th with more deals on the way during December. And as an added bonus, dabs.com is offering free delivery on every single product sold across the site for the rest of November to help cut the cost of Christmas even further.

With an amazing range of electrical products from laptops, monitors and netbooks to Apple iPods and Tom Tom GPS systems, you're sure to find the perfect gift for Christmas online today at dabs.com.
