Paris's Palais de la Decouverte is showcasing an unusual exhibition entitled Get Tactile, which allows visitors to explore their sense of touch.

Travellers with Paris hotel bookings can check out the installation until March 13th 2011 at the venue and attendees are encouraged to interact with everything in the collection.

According to the organisers, the show is family-friendly and allows people to look at the way their senses work.

"The exhibition is full of fun and, with a wealth of sensations, offers a great opportunity for children in particular to enjoy the freedom to explore," they added.

Attendees from nearby accommodation such as Hotel Des Arts Paris will find they not only investigate the physical sense of being touched, but also the concept of being emotionally affected.

Unusually, visitors will be asked to take their shoes off before entering the display area, as this will allow them to take in all of the sense-exploration on offer.

Admission to the exhibition costs €7 (£5.95), but there are concessions available.

Opening hours at the centre are from Tuesdays to Saturdays between 09:30 and 18:00 local time and 10:00 to 19:00 on Sundays and public holidays. The complex is shut on Mondays.

Anyone getting to the Palais de la Decouverte by January 25th could also check out the Marine Alliances show.

For more information on this event, visit the Grand Palais website or contact the venue on +33 1 5643 2020.

Hotels-Paris.co.uk offers a wide range of accommodation in Paris, such as the Kyriad Brancion Hotel Paris.
