DirectRooms.com reveals that many of the biggest names from the classical music industry will be playing in a special series of performances due to be staged in Eilat in March.

For more than a week from 17th to 26th March 2011, the Eilat Chamber Music Festival will be featuring music by some of the most famous composers, performed by the most talented individuals from the world of classical music.

Stars such as Kristine Blaumane, Elisabeth von Magnus, Nicholas Mulroy, Hillel Zori, Anthony Pay and Chloe Hanslip will be performing in each of their individual specialities. Audiences can also expect to be treated to group performances from the Concergebau Chamber Orchestra, Il Palpiti and the Freiburg Baroque Orchestra who will be recreating the work of classical masterpieces.

A special show of flamboyant dance acts will also take place, with one of the not to be missed acts coming from the leading Spanish flamenco dancer, Maria Juncal. The festival is the premier of her acclaimed 'Tercera Llamada' show which is then set to tour around Israel.

With such an extensive collection of international artists tickets for the event and Eilat hotels are set to book up quickly as the city experiences a large influx of visitors.

Lek Boonlert, marketing head at DirectRooms.com commented: "The Eilat Chamber Music Festival is a special event that attracts many famous guests as well as hundreds of music fans. Hotels in the area are going to have limited availability so booking early is essential for anyone set to attend."
