"This is the first time we've invested in a U.S.-based environmental firm. When you partner with Onondaga, you partner for life."

"When I founded EcoLogic Solutions, I looked to Onondaga values and sustainability as paragons for our business," said EcoLogic CEO Anselm Doering. "That's why I'm honored, and humbled, to make in this announcement today. It's the fulfillment of a dream within a dream."

EcoLogic Solutions clients include Chipotle Mexican Grill, Whole Foods Markets, the Statue of Liberty, Mandarin Oriental Hotels, Mario Batali & Bastianich Hospitality Group, the Durst Organization, and NBC Universal, among many others. It sells exclusively to wholesale markets at this time. EcoLogic Solutions' products will be made available to Onondaga Nation citizens soon.

A sovereign nation on 7,300 acres south of Syracuse, Onondaga is a proud member of the Haudenosaunee ("People of the Long House"), an alliance of six Native American nations sometimes referred to as the Iroquois Confederacy or Six Nations. Other members include the Mohawk, Oneida, Cayuga, Seneca, and Tuscarora nations.

"The Onondaga Nation and its people have a unique spiritual, cultural, and historic relationship with the earth and the waters, which is embodied in Gayanashagowa, the Great Law of Peace," said Jake Edwards. "It is the duty of the Nation's leaders to work for a healing of the earth, to protect it and pass it on to future generations. This partnership is about making a better world for the generations yet to come."
