Fans of indie, folk and rock music from all over the British Isles will be heading to the east coast of Scotland to enjoy the Montrose Music festival this May. Montrose, located on the road which connects Dundee with Aberdeen, is a true jewel in the music calendar crown.

Organized on a volunteer basis, the Montrose Music Festival offers a shop window for many up and coming acts to get themselves in front of record company A&R men as well as developing a new fan base from music lovers who may not have known them previously.

Taking place between 27 May and 29 May this year, anyone who is thinking of heading to Montrose to enjoy the live gigs should look into places to stay in nearby Dundee. Cheap Dundee hotels could get booked up quickly so DirectRooms.com advises people to be smart and book ahead before traveling up to Scotland.

Many of the concerts will be held at Montrose Town Hall and tickets will be available soon on the event website. The website is also home to a wide range of in-depth additional information provided by its volunteer organising committee to help attendees make informed decisions.

Lek Boonlert, marketing head at DirectRooms.com says: "This is one of the real highlights of the live music calendar in the UK and those in the know appreciate what a festival with a difference it is. Getting a place to stay in Dundee before heading to the live gigs in Montrose is a great way to find value for money accommodation."
