DirectRooms.com reveals that the talents of Italian rock star and singer Gianni Nannini are set to take to the stage in Treviso later in May.

The concert is a special one night only performance by the artist before setting off to play in Firenze and Bolzano. The artist is due to play a number of dates in Italy and afterwards will be making her way to Switzerland, Austria and Germany.

For the show in Treviso, Nannini will be performing many of the biggest singles from her career such as the ever so popular 'Bello e Impossibile' regarded as one of her greatest singles and which has also sold the most copies.

The artist first came to the attention of the public with a single called 'America' that was released in 1979 and then with the album 'Puzzle' which came out in 1984 and entered the top ten across Italy, Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

Fans will also be eagerly waiting to hear songs from the million selling 'Maschi e Altri' as well as 'Grazie' which was launched in 2006 and since then has gone platinum a massive seven times. People wanting to attend the concert from a hotel in Treviso Airport should head to the Palaverde di Villorba for 24th May 2011.

Lek Boonlert, marketing head at DirectRooms.com commented: "As the only chance that fans can see Nannini in Treviso, tickets are quickly running out. Hotels are likely to have the same problem with rooms so fans should make an early reservation."
