NEW 2016!

Dear Chris,

I know you have been really looking forward to Christmas and I am sure that, just like me, you are counting down the days. I receive a lot of letters in which children ask me how I manage the mountain of gifts, mischievous elves and super smart reindeer, as well as my own appetite for chocolate and tendency to lie by the fireplace all day. So let me tell you briefly what it's all really like...

Each morning, my personal assistant, Horace the Elf, brings me a whole box of letters from all over the world, sent by children and adults (instead, adults write to me too!). Together with Horace we read them all very carefully and make notes on various gift ideas. Sometimes we also receive adverts for new models of sleighs or for potions which let you fly under the stars. But, in my opinion, the old sleigh is still working perfectly well, both on snow and in the air, so we will not be replacing it anytime soon. In the afternoon, I always visit my reindeer and other animals who live with us. If the weather is nice, we visit nearby villages and tell each other funny stories on our way there.

When the evening comes, we all meet by the fireplace and talk about everything that has happened to us throughout the day. My elves are verry chatty, so we usually sit around until all the wood in the fireplace has burnt down.

As I am writing this letter, I am thinking of you and of the big smile on your face when you see what I have in store for you this year.

Have a wonderful Christmas,

Santa Claus
