

Egyptian Artist Menna Brown Releasing New Line of Street Clothing

Egypt-Inspired Line to Be Released November 24

Greenville, NC, 2017-Nov-24 — /EPR Network/ — Prominent Egyptian artist Menna Brown has introduced her new line of street clothing featuring all kinds of distinct prints. The prints are heavily inspired by Egyptian culture as well as fine art.

The new line of clothing is slated to be released on November 24.

The prints Menna has made include some unique designs that highlight her many influences. These include Egyptian, fine art nude and psychedelic prints. She even has a few prints influenced by rock music icon Jimi Hendrix.

Many of these have been released under the Ibd Street Fashion sub-brands including Boss Life, Black and Infinitely Beyond. These are among the more prominent urban fashion brands available on the market.

The outfits are being supported and marketed by Ibd Street Fashion. The brand is aiming to highlight these unique outfits from Brown and show off her unique design that is influenced by Egyptian history among other key points.

Menna Brown states that her work is designed to celebrate Egyptian culture and to give people a chance to look at the distinct and unique beauty of the female body. To her, each piece is unique and all people can see many things out of each item that they get.

This makes for an interesting point that directly influences what people feel when wearing these outstanding and distinct outfits.

The street style of each print makes for a unique look for people to wear as well. Every product made by Brown showcases her strong style and attitude as it reveals an intriguing look that is unlike anything else around.

This is just the latest work of art that Menna has been producing in recent time. Menna has been working on many designs inspired by African history and continues to teach art to young people. She has also been working with her husband, Legendary By Design CEO Gerald Brown Jr., on his current graphic novel and screenplay Samurai Saga: Belli Deum Ex Machina.
